

Cover Every Page in 150 Days

Let's get real about math books. Let's agree that it really doesn't matter how many wonderful things are in the book if it takes 347 days to cover all of the wonderful things! Right? After all, who cares if the chapter opener has a fun game if there is no time to use the game? Right?

The primary emphasis of the NCTM Focal Points is that there are fewer topics taught in each grade, and each topic is covered in depth. The pacing guide for each of the Big Ideas Math books has 150 days to cover every page from Chapters 1 though 9. Isn't it about time that someone published a middle school math book that is actually doable?
